PLEASE FORWARD THIS BULLETIN TO THE PERSONNEL IN YOUR ORGANIZATION WHO ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR MAKING EDITORIAL DECISIONS REGARDING THE CONTENT OF YOUR PUBLICATION, NEWS PROGRAM, WEBSITE, SOCIAL MEDIA PAGE(s) and/or YOUTUBE CHANNEL

We regret to inform you that the Directorate of Unified Intelligence (DUI) formally "requests" that any and all press and media organizations in any ~~Englitch~~... dammit...English speaking country (and/or planet) listed above (or not) do not, repeat NOT attempt to compose, publish and/or print ANY review (and/or Wikipedia entry) of "The American Book of the Dead" OR "The Big Bloody Book of English (development)" for a period of (at least) 7 YEARS after their original publication date (TBD.2017).

We apologize for any inconvenience incurred by your organization's compliance with this directive. Unlike some other intelligence agencies (and/or departments) we may or may not be able to name (at the present time), the DUI has absolutely no interest or intent (much less enforcement authority) to otherwise restrict, impinge or abridge your First Amendment rights as an American citizen (as applicable) to make wildly inaccurate statements in print or other public media forums.

Like most people (and/or Intelligence Agencies) with half a brain, the DUI understands that anything approaching success in any Democratic system of governance is fully (but not solely) contingent on the individual right to Free Speech (and assembly) and a similarly Free Press. Indeed, one could (successfully) construct a persuasive argument that the freedom of personal or collective expression is more central to the success of Democracy than even having the world's largest military in the history of mankind (so far).

However, concomitant with the freedom of speech is the freedom not to speak, and especially about matters well outside of one's own experience, knowledge base and/or present perceptual field.

The DUI "requests" that any and all press and media outlets (including any and all blogs, "info-tainment" websites and/or air banner services) "voluntarily" exercise their Freedom of Restraint in respect to reviews and/or analytic comments in regards to "The American Book of the Dead" and "The Big Bloody Book of English (development)" for the following two (2) reasons:

> 1)As the indicated device(s) accurately documents a moderately unusual experience that transpired with absolutely no (overt) warning, omen, portent, sign, indication, token, harbinger, premonition and/or foreshadowing prior to the occurrence of the event(s) in question, it is the consensus of both our compositional and editorial departments that the best possible device experience for readers is best facilitated with a similar lack of preparation and/or warning (et al) prior to their introduction to the device.
> 2)Any attempt to describe the paired device(s) in 876 pages or less will necessarily be inaccurate and run the probable risk of grossly informing the reader regarding their dominant themes, thematic development and somewhat novel (and/or sub-genius) deployment of Modern English.

We here at the DUI both understand and empathize that compliance with this notice runs counter to the institutional instincts of the press at large while further exacerbating the pre-existing oppositional defiance tendencies that are a primary contributing factor for many journalists starting to write in the first place. We again apologize for any stress experienced in complying with this notice.

We would like to stress that this notice is not, repeat NOT just another flagrant act of a relatively unhinged Police State attempting to prevent the American Free Press from accurately reporting on the kind of covert activities that do not bear close scrutiny in the light of day.

This is nothing more or less than a timely notification regarding the health, safety and continuing metabolic viability of your organization's employees, sub-contractors and freelancers. Non-compliance with this DUI notification could potentially result in professional and personal repercussions for non-compliant individuals that some might describe as "karmic", "necromantic" and/or "thaumaturgic" in origin.

These repercussions may (or may not) include (but are not limited to): the accidental ingestion of polonium "enhanced" sushi; the untimely explosion of one's e-cigarette, cell phone battery, pen, and/or (lightly used) cigar (or some combination thereof) on or about one's person, favorite shirt (and/or pants) and/or FACE; being on the wrong end of a possible firearms "incident" occurring on a hunting trip with a former or sitting (or standing) Vice-President; being set up as unwitting patsy for any future political shenanigans yet to be scheduled; the subsequent crashing of non-compliant individuals' next 3-9 Powerpoint presentations at the worst possible times; being accosted then harangued by the "spirits" of various (or all of one's) dead relatives while asleep; being randomly transferred to a field desk (and/or office) in any state strategically located South of the Mason & Dixon line or between the Mississippi river and the Rocky Mountains; the spontaneous (and unsought) PTSD inducing recollection of all of one's past lives going back to the last time they were a monkey; and/or the subsequent disappearance of a minimum of at least 66.6% of one's left socks from non-compliant individuals' future laundry sessions.

The DUI would like to stress at this time that precisely NONE of the above mentioned (or other possible) repercussions will be coordinated, facilitated and/or orchestrated by the DUI or any of it's personnel at any time in the present or foreseeable future. The DUI plans to have solid alibis established to that effect during any potentially related "repercussion" activities that we will obviously have no knowledge of, at this time.

Your safety, continued economic viability and cultural relevance is important to us. In the event one or other (or more likely both) of the indicated devices reaches the critical cultural threshold where related comments are deemed by your organization (and/or editor) to be vital to the continued relevance of your publication (and/or blog), the DUI politely "requests" that your publication or blog simply just re-print this notification in full, unedited (yes, like the original OBVIOUSLY) and restrain yourselves from further comment about the indicated devices during the indicated time period.

Please do not, repeat NOT attempt to "confirm" the validity of this notification with those jackholes at DHS, NSA, CIA, FBI, Naval Intelligence or the current incarnation of the "Office of Special Plans". Those agencies weren't cleared for this operation and leak worse than sieve blasted with a 12 gauge shotgun. And THANK (insert preferred deity and/or lack thereof here) for it, but some things are just to important to risk.

Thank you in advance for you and your organization's, publication's, and/or blog's compliance with this notifications. If you have any related questions, please feel free to to direct them to the nearest highest power at your convenience.

This concludes your DNR (Do Not Review) Notice.
